New Water Bill Includes the Millwood Project

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1,556,740,000 compromise omnibus rivers and harbors authorization bill went before the House today.

The bill, which includes several Arkansas projects, was passed by the Senate last night with only one dissenting vote.

A House Public Works Committee earlier in the day approved a slightly different version of the bill which cleared the way for House action.

President Eisenhower has twice vetoed water bills on grounds they contained objectionable projects.

Arkansas projects in the House bill include:

• Bœuf and Tensas Rivers, $1,212,000.

• White River backwater project, $2,380,000.

• St. Francis River Basin, $35,674,000.

• White River Basin, 57 million dollars.

Planning for the Gilbert and Lone Rock Reservoirs.

• Millwood Reservoir system, $53,255,000.

The Senate bill does not include the Gilbert and Lone Rock Reservoirs and the Millwood Reservoir system.

U.S. in Deadlock With East Germans

BERLIN (AP)—The United States ran into a deadlock with Communist East Germany today in negotiations to obtain the release of 111 imprisoned U.S. Army men.

The U.S. mission in Berlin announced that the third round of talks at the East Berlin Foreign Ministry was unsuccessful. No date has been set for a further meeting.

The American prisoners—eight officers and a sergeant from the 3rd Armored Division in West Germany—were seized by the Communists when their big helicopter strayed across the Iron Curtain June 7 in a storm.

Shreveport Bank Robbed of $25,934

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Two masked gunmen robbed a branch bank on the edge of the city today and fled with $25,934.44 in cash.

Tellers in the North Market Street Branch of the Commercial National Bank said one of the bandits was a Negro and the other a white man. The robbers wore white scarfs over the lower part of their faces. The Negro was armed with a sawed off shotgun.

Bank officials said the men took the money from four tellers' cages.

Police said the men were believed to have headed toward the main section of Shreveport. The bank is located on the northern edge of Shreveport on Highway 71.

The bandits apparently switched to another car shortly after the robbery. Police said the get-away car was found abandoned in Shreveport.

Capt. H. M. Terry of the Caddo Parish sheriff's department, who was across the street from the bank at the time of the holdup, said he fired two shots at the robber's car as they sped off.

Two Negroes, Early Curry and Hosey Lee Davis, told newsmen they walked in the bank during the holdup to get their paychecks cashed. They said the Negro bandit swung the shotgun toward them and they turned and fled. They said he didn't fire at them.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that Sherman Adams was imprudent in his relations with Bernard Goldfine but "I need him" to continue as top presidential aide.

Eisenhower made it plain at a news conference that he has no intention of firing Adams, although he did not say that in so many words.

In anticipation that the President would talk about the hottest Washington subject of the moment, newsmen were packed into the conference room.

At the outset, Eisenhower announced he had a statement he wanted to read.

Bridge Spans Collapse, 16 Workers Die

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Two sections of a nearly finished six-lane bridge collapsed mysteriously Tuesday in a tangled mass of steel, plunging at least 16 workers to their death.

Two others were missing and 22 injured.

It was 3:42 p.m. on a hot, sunny, windless afternoon when the two end sections of the 16-million-dollar Second Narrows Bridge over Burrard Inlet gave way without warning.

Forty construction workers were on the steel latticework of the pier-supported sections.

Suddenly, with a muted rumble, the temporary front supports of the foremost section crumbled and dropped the latticing end of the bridge 200 feet into the tide-churned inlet separating Vancouver and North Vancouver.

The strain jerked forward the concrete pier holding the section behind, and it posed downward into the water. The two sections, each about 70 feet long, ended their collapse tilted crazily downward like a sagging W with their front part submerged and rear still on the supports.

This act, he said, can be regarded as clear evidence of the intent of the Soviet Union to pursue a policy of terrorism and intimidation aimed to enforce complete servitude.

Nagy's execution, the President went on, has alerted the free world to the lack of confidence it is compelled to fl in the Communist imperialists.

The show will also feature special entertainers, including Butch McLeary of Okay, winner of the recent Grand Ole Opry contest for Hempstead county, and his band; also Miss Susan Davis and Sammy Strong, popular vocalists from Hope with Mrs. Eva Reynolds, his accompanist.

Speaking to the cooperation of the Hope business men and women, Mrs. Orville Wootton, chairman of the McCaskill committee which contacted the local business firms, declares she and her committee members are tremendously pleased with the reception given them.

"Everybody was very nice and we were given many valuable items to use as prizes," she said.

While the committee tried to see as many firms as possible, it was impossible to contact everyone, declared the chairman.

The retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, Bud Collier, chairman, paved the way for this event by voting unanimous approval and urging local business people not only to support the carnival with prizes but to attend

Friday night.

The carnival will get underway at 7 o'clock with the radio quiz show, scheduled for 8 o'clock and the wrestling at about 9:30 p.m., according to Jim Morris, general chairman.

Ike Makes It

Plain He Will Not Fire Adams

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower left Republican colleagues little room today to criticize Sherman Adams without aligning themselves against the President himself.

In a statement read to his news conference, Eisenhower rebuked his chief assistant for being "imprudent" — a word Adams himself had used—in calls to government agencies in behalf of Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

But Eisenhower said in effect that it won't happen again—that his administration is going to be impeccable with respect to the acceptance of gifts, and in its ban on the use of White House influence on regulatory agencies.

With his strong defense of Adams, Eisenhower linked himself to his aide in such a way that any Republican who now criticizes Adams also criticizes Eisenhower.

Several congressional Republicans who are running for re-election this year have been critical of Adams. Not many of them are likely to want to challenge the President's operation of his own office.

Adams testimony before a House subcommittee Tuesday that he had exerted no influence on government agencies in behalf of Goldfine despite the loan of a $2,400 oriental rug and the payment of more than $2,000 in hotel bills, had left Republicans divided on whether he had cleared himself of influence charges.

Prices Bring Slaughter of Dairy Cattle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that beef cattle prices — at the highest levels in six years — are encouraging some dairymen to send milk cows to slaughter.

In some areas, the agency said, returns from the slaughter market are more favorable than returns from production of milk. Prices of the latter have declined this year, largely reflecting lower government price supports.

This movement of some milk cows to slaughter is causing the production of milk to level off at about last year's level, the department said. Improved production practices were said to be preventing a decline in milk output.

"In a number of states where milk production competes with meat animal enterprises, milk output apparently has been restricted," said the department in a dairy situation report.

"The importance of this factor in restricting milk output the rest of 1958, however, cannot be finally concluded from the first five months because during much of the early part of the year severe weather prevailed in many areas of the country. In 1951 and 1952, when meat animal prices also were high, compared with milk prices, production of milk averaged 2 per cent under 1950."

"But in that period supplies of feed grains and roughages were not so plentiful as currently," the report pointed out.

The leveling off in milk output is being reflected in a reduced volume of sales of surplus cheese and butter but more non-fat dry milk to the department under price supports.

Omnibus Farm Bill Veto May Be Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle prevailed in farm circles here today that Secretary of Agriculture Benson would recommend a presidential veto if Congress passes the new omnibus farm bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee last Friday.

In his first comment on the legislation, Benson told a dairy industry luncheon yesterday that the measure was a loosely drawn document which "lies in immediately needed and soundly conceived programs for expansion of markets for several ill-begotten and ill-conceived items."

Benson said further that the measure would adversely affect the dairy industry by fastening quotas on dairymen, forcing retail prices higher and weakening the competitive position of all dairy products.

The committee-approved bill carried some items recommended by the Eisenhower administration and some opposed by it.

Benson said farmers and the nation need constructive measures now.

"Never has there been more need for earnest, frank discussion of farm policy than right now," he said. "Will farming remain free? Is it going to be socialized-nationalized?... will we channel abundance into use, or will we cut back to an even more stringent economy of controlled scarcity?"

But Benson predicted that the administration's proposals will be adopted in time, adding that he believes the time to be not far off. Under these proposals, the government's role in agriculture would be greatly reduced.

Big 3 View Latest on Conference

BY WARREN ROGERS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France surveyed the wreckage today of their efforts to set up a summit conference through secret diplomacy.

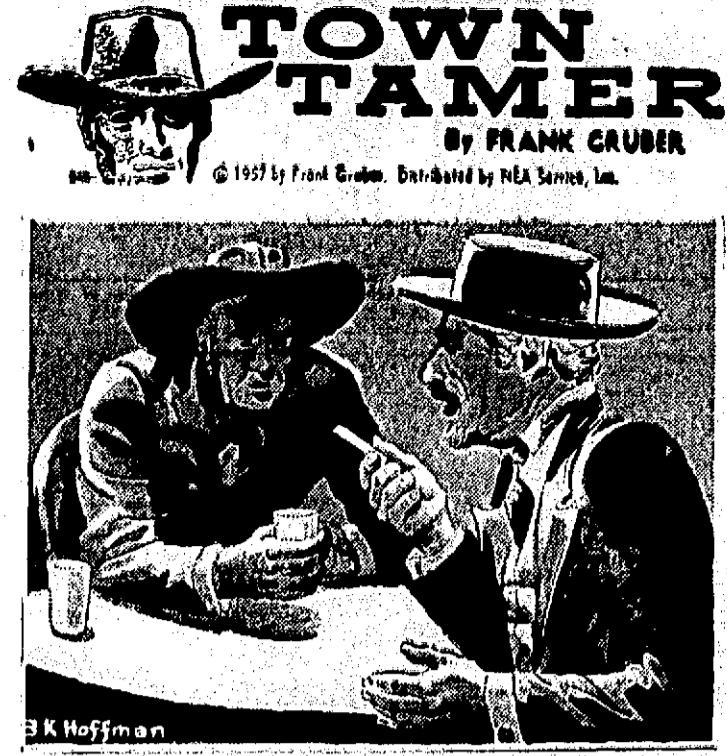

Moscow blew them out of the ring by making public a letter from Soviet Premier Khrushchev denouncing their attempt as needless foot-dragging.

The State Department blasted back by publishing the West's major presumption proposals, hitherto kept secret.

When the smoke cleared, things were right back where they were two months ago: the Soviet Union agreed to try the West's way. The Soviet Union was demanding a heads of government meeting. The West was insisting on adequate preparations on lower levels first.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko started things off in Moscow. He called in Ambassadors Llewellyn Thompson of the United States, Sir Patrick Kelly of Britain and Maurice Dojean of France. He told them he was making a public statement. Khrushchev June 1 letter to their government chiefs, as well as other foreign ministers they had been discussing in Moscow.

The Soviet ambassadors in Washington, Paris and London were called home, meanwhile, for consultation.

THE STORY: Lee Ring, the man from Idaho, was hired by Riley Condor and other saloon proprietors in a frontier town to assassinate Marshal Tom Rosser. The gunfighter's bullet strikes Rosser's fiance Carol Grannan. She dies.

CHAPTER II

In the afternoons Rosser sat at the corner table in the hotel saloon and had two glasses of whiskey.

He had been doing this every day for more than two weeks, when a man approached his table one afternoon, shortly after Rosser's second whiskey had been placed before him. He was a well-built man of about 45, wearing a conservative business suit, a ruffled white shirt and a black cravat.

The stranger seated himself and extended a card to Rosser.

Rosser finally took the card and glanced at it, read: "James Fenimore Fell."

"You've heard of me?"

"A man named Fell is building the Minnesota Pacific."

"I am that man," Fell drew in a deep breath and exhaled. "Mr. Rosser, I paid the Pinkerton Detective Agency $1,000 for a report on you."

Rosser was finally roused from his lethargy. "Eh?"

"You've done a considerable amount of traveling since last October. You've been in Virginia City, Nevada, to San Francisco — New Orleans..."

"And two weeks ago I came to St. Paul," Rosser said coolly.

"That's right," Fell took a folded document from his breast pocket. "In the Pinkerton report it said that you talked to people about becoming a rancher, some say. Well, this is a deal to that ranch. Six hundred and forty acres of land in Montana. A precise railroad."

Rosser regarded Fell sharply. "Why should you give me a section of land?"

"Because of a proposition I am going to make you. You know that I am building a railroad, but you do not know how I am building that railroad."

"Is there more than one way?"

Fell did not seem to hear Rosser's question. He continued. "I'm building the Minnesota Pacific out of earnings. We lay 100 miles of track, then bring in colonists, farmers for the land, businessmen for the towns. From the freight and passenger revenue — and the sale of land — we build another hundred miles of track. Our first year we build to Fargo, our second to Bismarck, the third to Wiliston, and last fall to Wolf Point. This year — this year of 1886 — we're risking everything. We're going to lay 200 miles of track to Great Plains, which is going to be the biggest city between St. Paul and the Pacific Coast. We've risked everything, my associates and I. All this past winter, we've conducted an advertising campaign that has brought us the largest number of land and town-site applications we've ever had. These people are going into eastern and central Montana into the richest land our railroad has yet tapped, soil that will grow any kind of crop, grazing land for sheep and cattle and mines that are richer than the mines of Nevada. If we can lay our 200 miles of track this year — and that will be a success, in three years we'll reach the Pacific."

"Good," said Rosser carelessly. "I hope you make it."

"We've got to make it," Fell said earnestly. "This land deal is for a section near Great Plains. As it stands now, the land isn't worth more than 50 cents an acre. But if the railroad reaches Great Plains, your section will have a substantial value."

"I haven't accepted it," Rosser said, annoyed.

"Every railroad we've had," Fell went on, "has become a boom town. Every town has attracted the scum of the West, gamblers, saloonkeepers, thieves, killers. We need a steady stream of immigrants. We need them this year more than we ever needed them. Reports of lawlessness, violence cannottribble back and frighten away the immigrants. Great Plains must be kept under control. We cannot have the lawlessness of our previous towns. We cannot take the chance. We're gambling the future."

Rosser said grimly. "You're on

Carol Grannan, the memory of whom he had tried so hard to forget these last few months.

CHAPTER III

A poker game was going on at one of the tables and Rosser, after a few minutes, strolled to the game. The house player, who wore an eyeshade and sleeve guards, looked at him smirking. "We can use a sixth player."

Rosser pulled out a chair, seated himself and took three double eagles from his pocket.

Then Guy Taverne came into the bar, his dark face scowling. He came to the poker game.

"I see we've got some fresh money," he observed, shrinking at Rosser.

One of the players, Carl, was drawing poker and since no one had opened, the deal was passed along. One of the players opened the second game and Taverne stayed and raised the opening bet $5. Rosser dropped out and Taverne gave him an open sheep. Taverne won the pot finally.

It was Rosser's deal, then. When Taverne opened Rosser dropped out. Taverne again won, another small pot.

Rosser stayed in the next game, but did not win. It was Taverne's turn to deal then and he passed out the cards with a flourish. The first man opened for $5. Rosser stayed, but when it came Taverne's turn, the dealer raised the bet $10. Surprisingly, four players, including Rosser, called the raise.

The opener drew one card and checked. The next man looked at his three card draw and tossed in his hand, as did another player.

Rosser drew two cards and without looking at them tossed a $5 bill into the pot. Taverne drew two cards. He called Rosser's bet and raised it $10.

The opening player frowned worriedly, but finally put out $15. Rosser, still without looking at his cards, called Taverne's and raised it 20.

Taverne looked at his hand, hesitated and then called and raised it 20. "I've seen my hand," he said, thinly.

"Yes. You will have no official status. You will not be working for the railroad, although you will have the railroad's interests in mind, at all times."

"What you mean," said Rosser, "is that if I get in trouble, the railroad doesn't back me?"

"That's about the size of it. You'll be on your own. You will work with the authorities, if that is possible, if not, you will work without them. Your duties will be —"

"To tame the town!"

"Yes!"

"And my pay is this section of land?"

"No. That is a gift. It's yours simply because — well — because I think it would be good for you to have a personal stake in the country. But, for the time you are in Great Plains, you will be paid."

"A regular salary or so much for every man I kill?"

"Yeah? Well, I picked up a pair of sixes."

"What kind of playing do you call that? Look at your cards."

"I prefer not to."

"I went in with three jacks," Taverne snapped.

"I had three queens," Rosser said quietly.

"Yeah? Well, I picked up a pair of sixes."

"What's the case you'll beat me if I didn't add to the queens?"

Taverne scowled savagely. He counted out his money, found that he had only $14. "I'm going to call and raise you 30," he finally said.

"Put it on the table."

"I've only got $14 here. The rest is up in my room."

One of the other players put in a word: "This game is table stakes. You can call for $14. Mr. Taverne, if you haven't got the money on you, you can't raise."

Taverne gave the man an angry look and shoved in his money. He flipped over his cards.

"Beat the full house."

Rosser turned over his original three cards, revealing three queens. He turned over one of the two draw cards, a deuce. The triumph grew on Taverne's face and then Rosser turned up the last card, a queen.

Taverne let out a roar of anguish. "Fool's luck!"

Rosser began gathering up his money. He pushed back his chair.

"Deal me out."

"You can't quit now," snarled Taverne. "Not when I'm behind."

"It seems to me you're broke," Rosser said evenly.

"My I.O.U.'s good."

"Is it?"

Taverne pointed at one of the players. "You'll cash a check for me?"

"No," was the blunt reply.

Taverne fixed Rosser with a glittering look. "You're the winner. You can cash a check for me."

"No," said Rosser. "I have an arrangement with the bank. They don't play poker and I don't cash checks."

Taut-lipped, Rosser walked away from the table. The poker game resumed without Taverne, who watched the game for a minute or two, then went to the bar.

Rosser went into the lobby where he bought a cigar and the St. Paul newspaper. He sat down in a chair near the window and read the paper.

Rosser was putting it aside when Susan Taverne came down the stairs. She started for the door, but when she reached it, she turned aside and stood for a moment, looking toward the door of the hotel saloon.

Guy Taverne, his dark face flushed, came out of the bar and saw his wife and son down the hall.

"Why didn't you come in and drag me out?" he sneered.

"Please," Mrs. Taverne said in a low, anguished tone. "Don't make a scene."

"Then stop following me around," snarled Taverne. "I'm getting fed up with you. You're a bore."

"I'm sorry," Rosser said.

"I'm sorry," Rosser said again.

large cards, Eisenhower said Adams had been imprudent, as Adams himself acknowledged in testimony Tuesday before a House investigating committee.

Despite that imprudence, Eisenhower said, he has reached these personal conclusions:

"1. I believe that the presentation made by Gov. Adams to the congressional committee Tuesday truthfully represents the pertinent facts.

"2. I personally like Gov. Adams.

"3. I admire his abilities.

"4. I respect him because of his personal and official integrity.

"5. I need him."

Eisenhower then went on to say:

"Admitting the lack of that careful prudence in this incident that Gov. Adams Tuesday referred to, I believe with my whole heart that he is an invaluable public servant, doing a difficult job efficiently, honestly and tirelessly.

After reading the statement, Eisenhower said he would have nothing more to say regarding the Adams-Goldfine case.

But, as the news conference progressed, he did reply to several questions concerned either directly with the matter or with general principles related to it.

On one related matter, Eisenhower did decline comment. This was when he was told that some Republicans running for re-election this year say they are going to have difficulty facing the voters on the Adams-Goldfine issue.

The President said he did not care to say anything on that—that he had already made his general statement.

At one point, Eisenhower was asked whether, in the light of the Adams-Goldfine situation, it would be proper for other government employees to do what Adams did and win Eisenhower's approval.

He replied that he always has striven for the highest, implacable standards in the case of White House staff members.

He said the residents there aren't receptive to his liberal stand on integration matters.

"I go along all right until I get to my plank on segregation," Luey said of his recent trip to Union and neighboring counties.

"Those folks are diehard Republicans but they're also diehard segregationists. I guess I'll go up to north Arkansas where the people like me better."

Eisenhower also said he is not likely to act directly with respect to workers in other agencies. The matter there, he said, is in the hands of Cabinet members and agency heads.

The White House followed up Adams' unprecedented appearance before a House subcommittee Tuesday with an announcement that Eisenhower has no intention of firing his top aide and Adams had no plans to resign.

This indicated that Republicans will have the task of defending the presidential assistant from Democratic attacks in the upcoming political campaign.

Some GOP members indicated that if they do so, it will be with reluctance. Others called out-right for Adams' resignation.

Adams told a House subcommittee Tuesday he had exerted no influence on government agencies in behalf of Bernard Goldfine.

Boston industrialist, in return for expensive favors he had received from his millionaire friend — including the loan of a $2,400 Oriental rug and the payment of more than $2,000 of hotel bills.

One Republican member of the subcommittee which heard him, Rep. John B. Bennett of Michigan, issued a statement saying Adams "should relinquish his post."

Few Showers Fall Over West Texas

DALLAS (AP) — A few showers snared Texas from El Paso in the west down the Rio Grande to Laredo today, and some heavy clouds hung over the southwestern Texas area rippled by flash floods Tuesday.

The streams in the hill country fell quickly back to their banks after racing madly for a mile following cloudbursts of up to 20 inches of rain.

The floodwaters blocked highways and marooned hundreds of persons for a time.

Floyd Miller, 47, of San Angelo, drowned in Concho River. Narrow escapes were legion.

A cloud fragment dangled in front of the setting sun Tuesday and lit up Dallas residents reported two funnels skipping about near the city. But the Weather Bureau said there were mirages.

Miller was fishing when a flood wash rolled down the Concho. His stepson, Robert Robinson, 11, was swept into the water and Mill-

Raney Family Buys Building of L. R.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The old Workmen's Compensation Building here was purchased yesterday by two young cousins, who submitted a bid of $201,995, the only one received.

The two are Miss Shafon Raney, about 19, daughter of D. P. Raney and Tom Raney, about 25, son of Alton B. Raney, all of Little Rock. The fathers are interested in an investment firm.

William J. Smith, Little Rock attorney, who submitted the bid for the cousins, said they bought the building for investment purposes out of their own funds.

The building went on sale after the Workmen's Compensation Commission moved to the new Justice Building on the state capital grounds.

FDR's Son Would Promote Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) today urged a summer-long federal educational effort to promote public school integration in the next school year.

In a speech prepared for the House, Roosevelt said he felt the federal government has not yet given its complete support to local school boards, teachers, parents and others trying to observe the Supreme Court's integration order.

Roosevelt said he had written President Eisenhower a week ago asking whether the federal government is preparing a program for the summer months aimed at preventing a recurrence of the Little Rock, Ark., incidents of last fall.

He also asked if the President is prepared to lend the strength of your leadership and the full prestige and resources of your office to community efforts to comply with the law."

The Californian advocated that the government prepare and distribute educational material to help develop public understanding of the problem.

He suggested that public and private agencies in a number of more crucial areas conduct public forums, radio and television round table discussions and use other means of reaching members of the community.

In addition, he proposed that trained specialists be sent immediately to places of potential outbreaks to give advice and lend assistance in carrying out integration programs.

Goldfine Got Some Special Treatment

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine, millionaire friend of Sherman Adams, got special treatment which under the law no citizen is entitled to. That's the main point disclosed so far in the Adams-Goldfine case.

The White House through presidential press secretary James Hagerty said June 13 the real issue is whether the wealthy businessman got preferential treatment from a government agency as a result of his friendship with Adams.

There is no evidence that any agency ruled in favor of Goldfine because he was Adams' friend but there is evidence he got confidential government information he could not have hoped to get without Adams' help.

The Goldfine and Adams families have been friends for years at quite some expense to Goldfine. He paid more than $2,000 hotel bills for Adams, gave him a vicuna coat cloth worth $69, and lent him a very expensive Oriental rug.

Goldfine, a textile manufacturer, got into trouble with the Federal Trade Commission for alleged mislabeling of his product. He went to see Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 assistant.

Adams — in a letter to a House subcommittee investigating government agencies — said on June 12 that Goldfine came to him in 1953 with a letter from the Federal Trade Commission and asked what prompted it.

(Why Goldfine, if he didn't want special treatment, didn't go directly to the FTC and ask that question hasn't been revealed yet because he has not been called before the committee to testify. He will be.)

Adams said he called FTC Chairman Edward F. Howrey and asked if the information Goldfine wanted could be made available. Then Adams in his letter said Howrey sent him a memorandum which he turned over to Goldfine.

But when Adams himself went before the committee Tuesday, this is what the committee counsel, Robert Lishman, told him:

Howrey, in his memorandum to Adams, revealed the name of the company which had filed a complaint with the FTC against Goldfine. Lishman said disclosing such information was a double violation of

1. The FTC's rules which require that the names of complainants in a case be kept confidential.

2. Federal law which prohibits revealing information in the FTC's files not already public.

Since both an FTC rule and federal law were readbacks to give

Maid Sought in Canada Kidnapping

TORONTO, Ont. (AP) — Police today arrested a woman they named as Gretel Goede, 40-year-old blonde German, and said she is wanted in Montreal on a charge of kidnapping the 13-year-old son of a wealthy chain store buyer.

Inspector John Simino said the woman was charged with attempted extortion in a case in Toronto. He said she may be taken to Montreal later.

She had denied she was the Gretel Goede, nursemaid, whitened in Montreal and declared some

Dear Mrs. D. P.: No one could possibly expect normal behavior

from a child who has been shuttled from home to home as often as this youngster has. It appears to me that neither parent wants him and the custody fight is just a private brawl made public. Two people try to hurt each other, are taking their spite out on a child. If anyone has the boy's welfare at heart, this legal battle will be stopped, and he at last will be

Cards Outlast Redlegs, Braves Boost Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lew Burdette, the hero of the 1957 World Series with three complete game victories in an eight-day span, now has two in four weeks, but that long-sought second one has boosted the Milwaukee Braves into a 2½-game National League lead—their biggest bulge of the season.

The crew-cut right-hander went all the way for the first time in six starts since May 22 Tuesday night. He stayed out of serious trouble with a nine-hitter as the Braves beat the Chicago Cubs 6-3.

Second-place San Francisco, the only other club to get as far as 2½ games ahead this year, was shipped 6-1 at Pittsburgh. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati 10-4 and joined the Pirates in jumping past the Redlegs for a third-place tie, just two games behind San Francisco.

In the American League, the New York Yankees ended their four-game slump, beating Cleveland 4-0 on Whitey Ford's three-hitter. Detroit made it five in a row with a 9-2 victory over Washington. The Chicago White Sox gained their third consecutive shutout as Billy Pierce's five-hitter beat Boston 4-0. Baltimore defeated Kansas City 4-1.

Burdette (5-4) walked but one and struck out four. He gave up a first-inning run—on a single by Tony Taylor, Al Dark and Lee Wills, who had seven of the Cubs' nine hits among them—then blanked Chicago on three hits until the eighth. Bobby Thomson tagged him for his eighth homer with two out in the ninth.

Frank Torre, Johnny Logan and Harry Hanebrink each drove in two runs for the Braves. A bases-loaded walk and Hanebrink's two-run single bagged it in a three-run fifth against Moe Drabowsky, now 4-7.

Ted Kluszewski, who was 3-for-4, Ramon Mejias and Bill Virdon each hit triples in a five-run private second against loser Johnny Antonelli (6-5). Rookie Curt Raymond gave up a first-pitch home run to Felipe Alou, then blanked the Giants on eight hits.

Ken Boyer smacked a pair of home runs for the Cardinals, his 14th capping a six-run ninth after the Cards had blown a 3-0 lead. Joe Cunningham's three-run triple cracked a 4-4 tie in the ninth against losing reliever Willard Schmidt. Stan Musial followed with a triple and then Boyer blasted off Reliever Phil Paine won his third.

The Phils scored six runs in the eighth, before the Dodgers reeled a man, to overhaul a 5-3 Los Angeles lead. The tie-breaking and winning runs scored on a wild throw by losing reliever Clem Labine (3-2). Jack Sanford won it.

Don Newcombe Traded to Cincinnati

By CHARLES MAHER

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Big league baseball is a bittersweet business, and Don Newcombe was trying mightily today to digest a big bite of the bitter end with grace and good humor.

"I wasn't doing the club any good at all and they had to try to help themselves," the big fellow with the elaborate and graceful windup observed just before taking off for Cincinnati.

"That's where he'll be tonight. And for the first time in his long and sometimes brilliant career he'll put on a uniform that the Dodgers didn't pay for."

"It's just one of those things that happen in baseball," Big New said of the Sunday night trade that sends him from Los Angeles to Cincinnati in exchange for Steve Bilkis, Johnny Klippstein and Charlie Rabe.

"But I'm going to pitch baseball for Cincinnati. I don't think they expect miracles. They must have some confidence in me because they gave up a lot of people to get me."

Newcombe was voted the National League's most valuable player in 1956 after a magnificent 27 seasons.

It was in 1946 that Newcombe broke into organized ball at Nashua, N. H., with another great Negro player, Roy Campanella.

Don was asked whether the loss of Campy—paralyzed this spring in an auto accident—might have contributed to his 0-6 record this year.

"Campy had nothing to do with it. I don't miss Campy more than anybody because I roomed with him for many years. But the trouble was my shoulder. I pulled a muscle in it at San Francisco at the start of the season. I never had completely recovered but the pain is gone now."

The Butterfield State Coal Mine was established from St. Louis, Missouri, to the West Coast in 1953, employing more than 100 Concord coaches carrying from five to six passengers each 1,000 horses 500 miles and nearly 500 men making two trips weekly each way from San Francisco to St. Louis Gate for the 2,400 miles. The cost was $200 in gold.

200 Attend National 4-H Club Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The more than 200 rural young men and women attending the National 4-H Club Conference arranged today to visit Congress to see how a farm bill becomes law.

They were to be guests of Chairman Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana's Senate Agriculture Committee and Chairman Harold D. Cooley of North Carolina of the House Agriculture Committee. The two planned to explain operations of their committees in drafting and getting farm legislation adopted.

The conference is sponsored by the Agriculture Department's Extension Service.

Arkansas delegates in the conference are Judy Billings of Fort Smith, Ann Matthews of Lubbock, Texas, Ruth of New Braunfels, and Carol Wilson of Clay County.

American Loop Looking More Like a Flag Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

That new "race" in the American League still is struggling to stay alive.

With the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox on the move at first, things are looking up—if you can strip off the fact the New York Yankees have padded their lead by one game while losing 0-14.

Southpaw Whitey Ford won his seventh in a row with a three-hitter that beat Cleveland 4-0 Tuesday night as the Yankees ended their losing skid at four and joined their shutout string at 21.

The Tigers moved into fourth place with a 9-2 victory over Washington. The Senators dropped into eighth place as Detroit won its fifth in a row and seventh in eight starts under new manager Bill Norman, who took over last-place club a week ago.

Southpaw Billy Pierce squared his record at 5-5 and gave the White Sox staff its third consecutive shutout with a five-hitter that beat Boston 4-0. That made it five in a row straight for Chicago, now in sixth place, while leaving the second-place Red Sox eight games behind New York.

Kansas City missed a chance to take second, losing 4-1 to Baltimore.

In the National League, the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-3. Pittsburgh rapped a second-place San Francisco 6-1.

Businessmen Against Idea on Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of trade and business association leaders turned thumbs down today on any notion that some inflation is desirable to help maintain full employment.

The said too many people got hurt in wage-price spirals.

As examples, they cited persons receiving pensions and fixed incomes, insurance beneficiaries and those who have invested in government and corporation bonds.

"The notion that creeping inflation is a desirable stimulus to the economy is a devious way by which some obtain a greater share of total national income, at the expense of other segments and groups," said William T. Fairley, chairman of the Assn. of American Railroads.

Dr. Charles W. Raker, who presided over today's type of operation, said business officials giving their views on inflation and other economic topics in a questionnaire submitted by the Senate Finance Committee. The committee is making a broad study of the country's financial condition. It previously released the replies of a number of other business experts.

Tom Pickett, executive vice president of the National Confectioners Assn., said some inflation as well as deflation is inevitable in a free economy. But the government, he said, should stand ready to step in and try to curb inflation when it becomes excessive.

Milton Lightner, president of the National Assn. of Manufacturers, said full employment is a goal that cannot be achieved.

Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said efforts to maintain continuous full employment would precipitate inflation leading ultimately to a cash and serious unemployment.

But another farm leader, James G. Tatum of the National Farmers Union, said he would prefer to have a little inflation to a lot of unemployment.

The institute said the 1,467,000 policies in Arkansas set a new record.

Of the total life insurance owned in Arkansas on Jan. 1, $1,342,000,000 was in 404,000 ordinary life policies and $844,000,000 was in 705,000 industrial policies.

The institute said the 10-year rise in policy ownership in Arkansas was 157 per cent.

Two Girls Drown at Russellville

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Two girls drowned in nearby Piney Creek yesterday afternoon. One died trying to rescue the other.

The victims were Reatha Ellen Spencer, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spencer of Piney, and Doris Puckett, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Puckett, also of the Piney area.

Piney is about 13 miles west of here.

The bodies were recovered last night in about 18 feet of water at the mouth of Piney Creek which empties into the Arkansas River. A 6-year-old brother of Doris described the drownings to officers. He said Reatha was swept into deep water and went under. Then his sister disappeared as she tried to save Reatha, the boy related.

Ready for the Summer shopping stampede?

June, July and August are busting out all over — in sales. Last year summer retail sales were $1,400,000,000 more than spring sales. Summer sales gains in 1956 over 1955 were 22% greater than gains for the average quarter for the rest of the year.*

Summertime is shopping time because shopping's easier. Days are longer and the weather is better. Our booming economy has given more people more money to spend. Last year civilian employment averaged an unprecedented 65 million and zoomed as high as 66.8 million people at the seasonal peak during the summer months!

Daily newspaper circulation is highest ever, too — now up over 57,000,000. And it remains practically constant throughout the year. There is no summer replacement for the daily newspaper!

Each summer more and more advertisers — national, regional and local — are rushing their ads into newspapers to take advantage of the surge in summer buying. Make sure you get your share of summer sales. Use the daily newspaper this summer — all summer long.

All business is local... and so are all newspapers.
